REVOLT IN HAYTI.

Outbreak of Another Revolution-Capture of Miragonne-A Mulatto Uprising.

A gentleman just arrived from Hsyti gave to a Herald reporter Wednesday an account of an insurrection that he had witnessed on the 27th of March in that re General Boyer Basslay and General Barlow landed at 3 A. M. on the date named, with 103 men, well armed, and captured the town of Miragoane. The causes which have led to this new attempt at revolution are given by the reporter's informant in the following statement: The present Government, with President Salo-mon at its head, is most unpopular because of the crucities which it has practiced upon mulatioes. There has always been a bitterness between the blacks and the mulattoes. The latter, forming a third of the population, are by far the most intelligent, but have been systematically shut off from all political privileges and share in seventy-five years of age, came into power by intrigues a little over three years ago, and since his administration the country has been going from had to worse. The soldiers are generally seen with a gun in one hand and a dice-box in

PRESIDENT SALOMON'S CRUELTIES.

The present Government began its régime by banishing some of the mulattees, imprisoning others, and shooting hundreds after a brief incarceration. Even now the prisons are filled with women and children the narrator, he saw seven men taken out and shot without trial. In another place he saw twenty-eight men taken out of pri-son and shot without trial, and in the latter case the dead bodies were mutilated by the blacks, the eyes being torn from the sockets. For the past ten months this course has alienated the feelings of the bet-ter class of the blacks from the Government, and they are ready to hail revolu-tion. Nearly all of the property of the mulattoes has been confiscated.

Generals Basslay and Barlow had both been banished. Basslay is about thirty-five years of age, a man of some refinement, belongs to a good family, and once ran for presidency. He is married, and his me is at Jeremie, on the southwest side of the island. Barlow, who is also married. is about tifty years of age, and is a man of considerable intelligence and energy.
